Maintaining business momentum during the pandemic

The ability to communicate, engage and interact effectively is at the heart of business. Corporate events hold a fundamental role in facilitating the sharing of key messages, the delivery of training and the progression of business opportunities, but the current global crisis has led organizations from across the globe to consider alternative means of event delivery and many have chosen to engage with KTS to deliver theirs virtually. The KTS virtual event platform offers the following; and all, or only some, parts of this can be utilised:

A networking area: The pre-function area at physical events; an opportunity for your audience to engage with one another in live group and 1-1 chat and video chat booths, exchange business cards and participate in topical discussions (panel discussions, discussion boards, polls and surveys).

An auditorium: With capacity for up to 1000 attendees, the plenary room can host its own agenda with multiple speakers across the event. ‘One to many’ video presentation, or ‘multiple presenter to many’ audio presentation or up to four video presenters possible with an audience size capped at 500. Audience polls, live chat, private Q&A, downloads, Twitter feed.

Meeting rooms: These can be, but are not limited to being, boardrooms, breakout rooms, round tables discussion and evening activity areas. Accommodating up to 100 attendees in each. Up to ten attendees on live video chat and an additional 25 attendees on live audio feed, per room. Screen share, whiteboard, YouTube and Vimeo video push, polls and surveys, live chat.

Exhibition stands: Diary management system, 1-1 live video chats simultaneously over the ten stands, allowing a total of 20 participants to speak at one time. Text and audio chat also available. Audio room ideal for live podcasts, video capability and live stream presentations into the booth.

A resource hub: Support materials store, from where attendees can take away whitepapers, session and stand content, etc. in their ‘event bags’.

A help desk: Manned throughout the live event to support your attendees, as required. ‘Contact us’ facility for when the area is unattended.

We are the GPS to digital transformation for our clients. We co-design strategies to adjust to rapidly changing environments, and use 4IR tech to remain relevant. We start with processes, see what could change, where and how and apply the technology ethically.

With Covid-19, we co-design and re-purpose production lines, re-assign resources and create scenarios for the ‘now, the soon and the later’ with the plans to implement. During this time, designing new ways of working, supply chain management changes, different deployment of resources with best use of technology is critical. We do this. Within the framework of Society 5.0.

And here is an example of what we do:

We have partnered with a Grabouw-Elgin initiative for job creation and re-deployment of resources left stranded when the tourism industry stopped.

Production started on Day 1 of SA Lockdown, and the team has grown to deliver 30,000 washable face masks - as prescribed by government - in only 5 weeks. The masks comprise three layers: the outside layers are cotton or polycotton with medical spunbond in the center.

Pricing: we currently sell at R40 per mask.

With bulk orders, we will optimise on delivery costs.
